

Bibliography of Indian Scholarship on Nepal

Compiled by Shak Bahadur Budhathoki, Ramita Maharjan and Pratyoush Onta with editorial assistance by Lokranjan Parajuli, all at Martin Chautari (MC)

This is the first draft of a bibliography of works done by Indian scholars on themes related to Nepal. We started with a short bibliography prepared by Pratyoush Onta while he was researching the status of area studies in India during the year 2000 and enlarged it through new research and compilation. Sources consulted included relevant books, edited volumes, academic journals published from India, Nepal, and elsewhere, occasional paper series published by various research centers and universities, and relevant dissertation databases. We also did research at the Tribhuvan University Central Library (TUCL), and the libraries of the Centre for Nepal and Asian Studies (CNAS) and Martin Chautari. We consulted the online catalogs of the US Library of Congress (catalog.loc.gov) and World Catalog (www.worldcat.org) and did research in the online archives of JSTOR (www.jstor.org/) and Google Scholar (scholar.google.com). We also contacted several individuals and asked for lists of their relevant publications and details about dissertations that had been completed in their universities.

This bibliography is incomplete in several ways. First, relevant entries in the theme covered are missing simply because we did not have access to that information. This might especially be true for MA, MPhil and PhD dissertations done by Indian scholars on subjects related to Nepal in universities in India, elsewhere in South Asia and beyond. Also we had access to a limited number of journals published from India and it is possible that more writings by Indian scholars on Nepal have been published in other Indian journals. Second, this bibliography mostly covers work done since India gained its independence in 1947. Hence, works that were done in earlier periods are missing. Third, our focus has been on core social science disciplines. So, works written from disciplines in the humanities are missing. Perhaps even some other social science disciplines might have been under-represented in this bibliography.

Based on this draft bibliography, we can say that Indian scholarship on Nepal is quite substantial in volume. Hundreds of books, edited volumes, journal articles and occasional papers have been published in the last 65-70 years. The themes that have dominated Indian scholarship related to Nepal include political history, Indo-Nepal diplomatic and trade relations, trans-border migration, challenges of regional cooperation, and hydro-related politics. There is very little engagement with the substantial amount of social science writings (especially anthropological) available on Nepal by non-South Asian scholars in Indian scholarship on Nepal. Research by Indian sociologists and anthropologists on Nepal is virtually absent.

All efforts have been made to ensure the accuracy of the entries given herein. However there might still be inadvertent errors in them. We would appreciate suggestions regarding any corrections that need to be made in the entries given here and additions of relevant items missing in this edition of the bibliography. Such suggestions should be sent to us at either library.asst@martinchautari.org.np or sinhas@mos.com.np. Relevant and correct additional information will be incorporated in revised editions of this bibliography in future.

We are grateful to many Indian colleagues who provided us information related to this bibliography. In this regard, special thanks are due to Nihar Nayak, Srinivasan Ramani, Swatahsiddha Sarkar, Sangeeta Thapliyal, Anjoo Sharan Upadhyaya, and B.C. Upreti for their various help. We are also grateful to Ankalal Chalaune, Kishor Pradhan, Harshaman Maharjan, Yogesh Raj and other colleagues at Martin Chautari for their assistance during the compilation and editing of this bibliography. This work was supported by a grant from the B.P. Koirala India-Nepal Foundation to Martin Chautari.
